Sto Foundation announces 2020 summer school competition for architecture faculties

Dear Mr. Prof. Dr. Andreescu,

A central function of architecture education is to heighten the students' awareness of sustainable types of construction and to foster an open world view. Previous summer school projects have shown how well students breathe life into these tasks, which has strengthened our commitment to continue the programme. Against this backdrop, we are once again offering this competition in 2020. We invite all architecture faculties and departments at German and European universities to apply.

A total of € 150,000 is available to help fund the conception and implementation of various projects in which international students participate and that deal with teaching and conducting research on issues regarding "sustainable architecture in a context relevant to society". In addition, the Sto Foundation will support the public relations campaigns of the winning projects.

Please alert your colleagues to this opportunity. We ask you to submit meaningful applications by 31 January 2020. Please submit a request for project funding, including a brief concept, schedule and costs. Please send your documents to

Cheret Bozic Architekten BDA DWB
c/o Mr. Peter Cheret
Johannesstraße 11/1, 70176 Stuttgart
E-mail: buero@cheret-bozic.de

A group of well-known jurors will announce the winners in the first quarter. Funds can then be accessed in 2020 already.

Application forms for project funding in German and English, as well as examples of previous summer school projects and the e-book version of the guideline "on going – Students building for the community" can be found at the link below:
